

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation.

It's an example of
why we oppose
state-run media in communist and
fascist countries
and why we prize
balanced coverage
in this country.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies
control the
airwaves, we get misleading "news"
that is biased in favor of big money interests. What does this mean for our democracy if the public is fed skewed mis-information?

This seems like an
open and shut case for the FCC. Please rule against Sinclair's presumed right to air this show.

Sincerely, Dr.
Barbara Regenspan
Associate Professor
of Education
Binghamton
University